

SHAW ASKED UNTIL HE'S ASKED

Bankers Must Move First to Relieve Stringency.

IN GOTHAM INVESTIGATING

Will Examine Conditions Independently to Be Prepared When He Makes Up His Mind.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw came to town today. He was accompanied by his two daughters, who will sail for Europe tomorrow. The Secretary was asked if he intended to relieve the financial stringency in Wall Street by depositing Government funds in the national banks here. In reply, he made the following statement: "The fact that I have not decided to increase deposits is proved by the fact that I have not announced an intention so to do. I have never said I would not, and I have never said I would."

No Tips Coming.

"I am simply in the present tense a standpat, with an open mind. No banker has asked it, and no banker of prominence recommended it."

"Advice from speculators is about equally divided. Some 'bills' have advised it, some 'bears' have advised against it, and every wrecker has demanded that it shall not be done. The situation has nothing to do with my visit to the city. My daughters sail early tomorrow morning, and as I had some customs matters to look after, I came as usual by night train."

Standing Pat.

"I may possibly see a few merchants during the day and ascertain, if I can, whether the condition of the market is being reflected in business. Should I decide to do anything, everybody will know it as soon as anybody. I shall be controlled by conditions instead of advice, and guesses as to what the Treasury Department will do have been, and are, unnecessary and ill-advised."

Newspaper Accuses Shaw Of Favoring One Clique

In so many words, the New York Sun, in its financial article today, virtually charges that "a close and sinister intimacy" exists between the United States Treasury and a Wall Street financial coterie.

The fact that the Sun is regarded as a reflex of the financial community over the close and sinister intimacy that apparently exists between the Treasury Department and a financial coterie having their quarters in this city, which has been illustrated on a score of occasions in recent years, and was recently shown in glaring and shameful manner in the advance information obtained by this clique through its subterranean sources of connection with Treasury officials, the time and terms of the Treasury's last bond refunding call.

These apprehensions are not mitigated by such unofficial outpourings as have recently proceeded from Washington as to the policy of leniency and liberality toward the banks likely to be adopted by the Treasury Department in the present contingency.

Sinister Intimacy.

"Considerable apprehension now exists in the financial community over the close and sinister intimacy that apparently exists between the Treasury Department and a financial coterie having their quarters in this city, which has been illustrated on a score of occasions in recent years, and was recently shown in glaring and shameful manner in the advance information obtained by this clique through its subterranean sources of connection with Treasury officials, the time and terms of the Treasury's last bond refunding call."

BIG HEBREW MEETING TO AID IN RAISING RUSSIAN FUND

For the purpose of raising a fund with which to aid the persecuted Hebrews in Russia, a joint meeting of several local Hebrew relief, literary, and benevolent societies, will be held in Masonic Temple Sunday evening.

Among the organizations having charge of the fund-raising drive is the public at large, is invited, are the Zionists, Hebrew Relief Association, Hebrew Literary Society, and Jewish Laborers' Association.

A number of prominent and eloquent speakers from Baltimore will deliver addresses. Some of the addresses will be delivered in the Hebrew language.

FIRE ON K STREET.

Fire of an unknown origin occasioned about $100 damage in the apartments of James McLeod, on the third floor of 13 K street northeast, shortly after 12 o'clock last night.

The blaze was discovered by Miss Mamie McLeod, who rushed to the window and cried "Fire!" A policeman who heard her cries turned in the alarm.

In her endeavors to extinguish the flames Miss McLeod was painfully burned about the right hand.

FAIR OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY.

The first night of the church fair held in Pythian Temple last evening by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Universalist Church, proved to be successful in every particular. The fair will continue throughout the week, with ladies in charge say that if the following evenings prove as successful as the first they will be satisfied.

SEVENTY-FIVE INJURED.

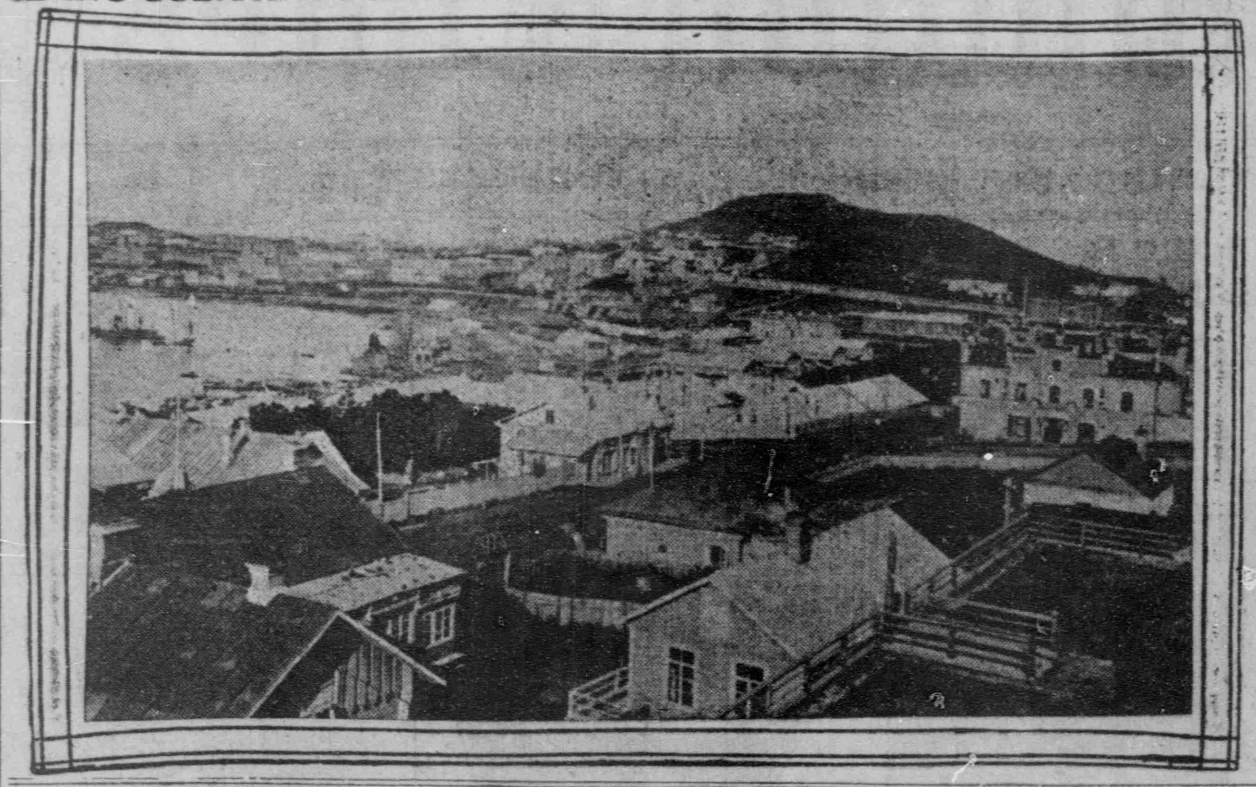

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 15.—Ninety men attending the southern Kansas Scottish Rite convention, were thrown into a heap by the breaking of a scaffold on which they stood to have their pictures taken this afternoon. Seventy-five were injured, but none seriously.

OLDEST OLD MAID.

Kokomo, Ind., Nov. 15.—Miss Eliza Williams, the oldest unmarried woman in the United States, was 100 years old on November 1. She is confined to her bed with a crushed hip, the result of a fall a few days ago. Until this accident she was able to walk about with the assistance of her cane, and the first to arise about her household. Generally dressed herself unaided. Miss Williams did all her own sewing until two years ago, when she was persuaded to give up anything of that kind, she being assured that she had done all that was to be expected of her. She performed all the duties of her household until five years ago.

She has always prided herself that she never went with the same man twice in her life. She received one proposal. An admirer obtained permission to call on her once and proposed on the spot, but was rejected and never allowed to call again. Miss Williams says God never intended her to marry. She cares for the men only who are relatives. Some time ago she refused to attend a picnic because she would have to be assisted in and out of the buggy by strange men.

CZAR'S SOLITARY PORT IN FAR EAST, WHERE REVOLUTION IS RIFE

HYDE HAD THE STREET IN A HOT SCRAMBLE

Investigating Committee, practically accused ex-Governor Benjamin B. Odell of blackmailing the Mercantile Trust Company out of $75,000, as a settlement of a suit brought by him to recover losses he made in an investment in the bonds of the United States Shipbuilding Company.

He charged: First—That E. H. Harriman told him the Mercantile Trust Company, which was owned by the Equitable life, had better settle Odell's suit, otherwise a bill might be put through the Legislature repealing the Mercantile's charter. As a result of this threat, Bainbridge Odell, who was then governor of the State, took the money, but did not turn over to the trust company the shipbuilding bonds on which he based his securities and retained the proceeds.

Repeal Bill Introduced.

Second—That on March 31, 1904, the late Senator Ambler, one of Odell's friends, introduced a bill which, if it had gone through, would have annulled the charter of the Mercantile Trust Company. The $75,000 was paid to Odell in the fall of the same year.

Third—That E. H. Harriman and Henry C. Frick, tried to form a conspiracy to remove him as a factor in the Equitable so that they could get possession of the society and its $400,000 of assets.

Fourth—That Frick's first move in this direction was an effort to have him appointed an ambassador by President Roosevelt. Harriman, Jacob H. Schiff, and Senator Depew did all they could, he said, to further this plan. He was attracted by the idea, and after they had made all the preliminary moves he saw the President.

Fifth—That Harriman and Frick, while pretending to be his friends in his fight with James W. Alexander, did everything possible to deprive him of the value of his stockholdings in the Equitable Life, and then made an offer to his lawyers to buy his stock control of the society.

Sixth—That Henry C. Frick, from the day he entered the Equitable board of directors, tried to dominate the society and created "a reign of terror."

Seventh—That the Equitable's yellow dog fund maintained in the Mercantile Trust Company as a loan, and known as the James W. Alexander fund, was used for three purposes, namely, to settle suits, the purchase of Equitable stock, and for the payment of dividends. When this loan was liquidated, last July, Hyde paid out of his private funds $122,000.

Mr. Hyde was then asked regarding

WHAT A DIFFERENCE A Change in Food Makes.

All these things come from lack of the right elements in the food. A Professor says: "Some years ago while teaching in Canada, I began to run down and a daily headache and nervousness distressed me, then my eyes became affected and pained me greatly. There were days when it seemed the top of my head would lift off and the pain drive me crazy."

"I gave up work in Winnipeg and got a graduate scholarship at Cornell University. But after being there four months I broke down completely, with eye trouble, stomach trouble, and head trouble. For 8 months I was unable to resume my work for one entire month I was kept in a darkened room."

"I came back to Canada and began teaching again, struggling against continued bad health. The doctors said my troubles came from my nerves. The oculist said from my eyes. I read everything on the subject I could get hold of. In a famous work on 'Neurasthenia' one sentence struck me particularly: 'Diet alone, without medicine, will do more good than all the medicine in the world without diet.'"

"I have demonstrated most thoroughly and completely the truth of that declaration. 'From trying different foods I stumbled on Grape-Nuts, as a forlorn hope, a few months ago. When I began its use I weighed 115 pounds and after using it a short time found my weight increased to 135 pounds. It is not my nature to be very heavy, so the gain was remarkable.'"

"However, that was only one and the smallest of the benefits I derived from Grape-Nuts. Before I began to use it I could not concentrate my mind on my work; in school I was so nervous I could scarcely stand before my pupils. Now my mind is absolutely free from aches and pains; I never have any more trouble with my stomach, and my mental powers are active and vigorous. In fact, my friends say I am a transformed man."

"I feel that it is to the use of Grape-Nuts food alone that I owe my restoration to health and that it is I can keep myself in perfect mental and physical condition. I sometimes leave it out of my bill of fare for a week or two only to return to it again and feel the same improvement immediately."

refer you to any of the school and University authorities in Winnipeg, where I was classical master in the Collegiate Institute for 3 years, as well as to Prof. Bennett, head professor in Latin at Cornell University."

"I have simply stated plain facts, and unambiguously declare that it would rather do than again go through the tortures and miseries from which Grape-Nuts delivered me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

a transaction in the Lawyers' Title and Insurance stock. The record shows, said Mr. Hughes, "that Equitable bought 2,000 shares of the Lawyers' Title and Insurance and two days later 1,100 shares were sold to George H. Squire. This was in March, 1901."

Ignorant of Deals.

"I know nothing of the transaction," "You know that the price of the stock rose very high soon after the sale?" "I know the stock is valuable." "Did you know that shortly after the sale of the stock to Mr. Squire some of this stock was resold to the Equitable at a greatly increased price?" "I did not."

Use of Name Unauthorized.

"Did you know that stock was being acquired in the street through William Squire in your name?" "No sir." "Did you ever receive any money from Squire to take over all of the stock of the Lawyers' Title and Insurance transactions?" "I don't recall."

"Will not your books refresh your memory?" "My books are in a very confused state."

Mr. Hyde was excused for a moment to permit George H. Squire, Jr., son of George H. Squire, the former financial manager of the Equitable, to testify. Mr. Squire testified that in March, 1901, his father had purchased 1,100 shares of Lawyers' Title and Insurance Company at $14 a share; that on June 11 he sold back to the society 100 at $30 a share and that on November 22 he sold to the Equitable 100 shares at $30 a share.

George W. Jenkins was called. He said he was a former president of the American Deposit and Loan Company. He said that he had been instructed by Mr. Squire to take over all of the stock of the Lawyers' Title and Insurance Company which Williamson and Squire turned over to them.

Jenkins said later this stock was sold to the Equitable Life at a greatly increased price, and that this profit, minus commissions and interest, was turned over to George H. Squire. The witness thought that the profit amounted to about $18,000.
